

No Fries on the Side

Primanti Brothers

When it's almost famous, you don't change it.

When you work with a company for several years, it can start to flow like family. And with Primanti Bros. that means collaborating with a growing brand and probably a previously owned restaurant building. Primanti's penchant for procuring prior-occupied places puts us in a position to live out our tagline: Collaboration + Creation.

Being on-point to collaborate, we are able to turn out construction documents and layouts that work within the framework of the Bros' business model. No space is too challenging, as proven by the recent retrofit of an old Lone Star Steakhouse; trading the rustic industrial of the south with the hometown touches that only a steel-town favorite could inspire.

To see more of our collaborative efforts, check out this project at nvironmentdesign.com

